About: Jill Quirk

Jill Quirk is an environmental activist with a particular awareness of the role of human population growth and increasing human activities in environmental decline. She has worked mainly through the organisation, Sustainable Population Australia to communicate the magnitude of this problem, how and why it occurs where is leading and what choices we have.

Jill is currently involved in local environmental groups, including Kelvin Thomson's Victoria First, Protectors of Public Lands, Victoria as well as Sustainable Population Australia, the last of which she is a past Victorian and Tasmanian branch president. (2006-2014) Jill was a Senate candidate for the "Sustainable Population Party" in the last Federal election

The Freedom Summits are a not for profit foundation focusing on providing information, truth and enlightenment to the awakening world.

The human impact on our planet has become so profound that scientists have dubbed the current era 'the anthropocene'. The planet's biological and climate systems are being reshaped by our removal of natural vegetation, diversions of fresh water, stripping of the oceans, overloading ecosystems with nitrogen and phosphorus, and especially polluting the atmosphere with greenhouse gas emissions. We are turning our world into an unsafe place for humans to live. There are many things we can do to minimise the impacts of our lives, collectively and individually, but no matter how small each person's impact, too many people will make even our most basic demands on the planet too great.

It is far preferable that population growth ends through birth reduction rather than famine and war. Luckily, there are no down-sides to stabilising population. It increases the impact of all our other efforts for environmental and social improvement. Only myths created by vested interests hold that population growth is economically beneficial. A sustainable world needs new economic thinking, in which development means improving the way we live, not the throughput of stuff. Stabilising population drives many beneficial changes, including greater income equality, lower energy intensity of the economy and the possibility of a contracting environmental footprint.

Dr. Jane O'Sullivan has led research programs on agricultural intensification in developing countries before turning attention to the demographic pressures on food security. She has published ground-breaking work on the economic impacts of population growth. She regularly represents Sustainable Population Australia (SPA) at United Nations climate change conferences and is currently the president of the Queensland Branch of SPA.

About
Paul Seils

Paul Seils – "From Occupy, to Bentley's CSG Blockade to the Healing of ourselves and the collective through the Sacred Plant Medicine of Ayahuasca.
Paul Seils is a gypsy in heart, soul and life. After reaching the top of his profession in landscape consultancy, and possessing all the glittering trinkets that go with worldly success, an inner yearning to connect more deeply with his own truth prompted him to turn and walk down and away from the materialistic mountain he co-created.

Now living a more nomadic lifestyle between Brisbane and northern New South Wales, and having ridden a roller coaster of joys and challenges as he learned to live life from the inside, Paul has come to understand that his world is a reflection of the consciousness and our shared world is a reflection of our collective unconsciousness. His hope is that all people will take responsibility for their own evolutionary journey, raise their spiritual frequency, and help bring about positive personal and global change.

About
Stewart Jensen

Stewart will give a brief background on the history of banking, creation of money, and the deceitful nature of lending. This leads into a method of handling debt through the Credit Liberation Foundation (CLF) whereby you can write a series of lawful letters to alleged lenders which culminates in placing them into dishonour. He will also go over the new ‘mortgage challenge Class Action’ and give details on how you can become a part of this history-making initiative

Stewart has a background in training, personal, professional and spiritual development. HIs interest in financial education began in 2002 when he was running two training companies and an investment trust which included managing upwards of 25 staff across several areas. Like many others he studied with all the big names in financial education and thought he was getting the grips on it all when as a result of a major client going under pre GFC; he hit a wall, actually it was more like being hit by a bus.

From 2008 there was nothing but mountains of debt and up to 5 debt collector calls every day…yes every day! Even moving to Europe didn’t bring much reprieve. Like most of us, he felt he truly owed the money and felt his honour being eroded when he couldn’t pay it all back as was demanded.

Then in 2010 through a chance meeting with a friends mother, Ellen Brown; the author of “The Web of Debt” which explains how banks and the federal reserve are bankrupting the planet; he learned the truth behind the global banking scam. The tables started to turn. The truth sank in and upon returning to Australia in 2011 he vowed to get to the bottom of it all. What then began was an 18 month journey into debt freedom.

He used templates and even wrote his own material to tell the debt collectors where to go. He found Truthology in November 2012 and spent the next year addressing his home loan lender with much success. His ability to apply strategic thinking to situations, a remnant of his time spent in the military, brings a unique skill set to the debt liberation processes. In December 2013, he came on board to help manage the Credit Liberation Foundation as part of an awesome team of dedicated people.

He is somewhat of spiritual warrior, grounded in a philosophy of real world strategies coupled with an almost magical ability to 'tell it like it is'. Few would disagree that he is intelligent, fearless, honest, caring, and relentless. His goal is to support and assist others to awaken and come into their own power to challenge the fraud. The more that do it, the better it will be for this planet.

About: Peter Strachan

Peter will explore the nature of finite, non-renewable or slowly regenerating resources, looking at supply as well as the true cost to produce over time. Resource consumption will be mapped against population growth to illustrate the connection and ultimately the mismatch that is rapidly emerging.

The concept of our economy as a sub-set of the environment will be examined, looking at resource depletion protocols.

Most importantly, he will discuss how we can adapt and prepare for a different world of scarce resources.

Peter has travelled and worked outside of Australia for over 11 years, working in Zambia and PNG as a metallurgist and spending 4 years working in the City of London, advising European clients on Australian Investments.

He is a Senior Fellow of the Finance and Securities Institute of Australia (FINSIA) and an Affiliate of the Stockbrokers Association of Australia. Has a degree in Metallurgy from the University of Melbourne and a Graduate Diploma of Finance from Finsia.

Peter served on the National Executive of Sustainable Population Australia for several years and stood at the last Federal Election as a Senate candidate for the #Sustainable Population Party.

About: Kris Spike

Judging from the news we read and hear every day you would probably conclude that the biggest problem we face is finding new ways to ensure our economy keeps growing. Sustainability advocate Kris Spike will be turning all that on its head and arguing that our biggest problem is that we have designed an economic system that needs to endlessly grow. He believes the quest for endless growth has infected the minds of all our politicians, business people, media and academics to the extent that there is no serious consideration being given to an alternative to the grow-forever plan.

The talk will look at many of the deeply worrying consequences of this mania for growth including the push to keep our population growing and the winding back of hard-won environmental protections that are being sacrificed on the altar of growth everlasting.

Kris Spike is classical composer and pianist who combines his music and environmental passions by producing CDs and performing concerts that are designed to get people thinking about sustainability issues. With his group Wind Energy, Kris has performed concerts of his music in many cities across Australia and his music is often heard on ABC Classic FM and other fine music stations around the country. Kris is actively involved with many sustainability groups including Sustainable Population Australia and The Centre for the Advancement of the Steady State Economy (CASSE) and he stood as a senate candidate for the Sustainable Population Party at the last federal election.

About: Sheila Newman

Sheila Newman is an environmental sociologist and editor of articles on energy, population, land-use planning and resources. She co-edited the 2005 edition of The Final Energy Crisis, Pluto, UK. Her sites mission (www.candobetter.net) is to encourage ordinary people to engage themselves with the political processes that determine the course of our society. If sufficient numbers do so, this could make the necessary difference in making it possible for our society to turn back from the brink of the looming global environmental catastrophe threatening our survival.

She also makes environmental and sociological films, including a series on wildlife corridors and kangaroo populations.

"Sheila Newman is an evolutionary sociologist and editor of articles on energy, population, land-use planning and resources. She was editor and contributor of the 1st and 2nd editions of The Final Energy Crisis, Pluto, UK and has produced 2 vols of a controversial new book series entitled Demography, Territory and Law on multi-species population theory and different land-tenure systems. She edits candobetter.net, a website for reform in democracy, environment, population, land use planning and energy policy which encourages ordinary people to engage politically. She also makes environmental and sociological films, including a series on wildlife corridors and kangaroo populations."

About
Ian R Crane

A former oilfield services executive with twenty-five years international experience, Ian now lectures, writes and broadcasts on the geo-political webs that are being spun. He has a particular focus on US Hegemony and the NWO agenda for control of global resources.

Since 2001 Ian has concentrated his efforts on raising public awareness of the pernicious attack on the global population in the name of corporate globalisation and harmonisation.

For the past two years, Ian has been a particular thorn in the side of the UK Government and the unconventional gas industry with his FRACKING AWARENESS CAMPAIGN. Delivering in excess of 140 public presentations and putting out FRACKING NIGHTMARE, a weekly online update on the unfolding unconventional gas agenda in the UK.

Over the past 12 months, Ian has been resident at three anti-fracking protection camps and has documented these campaigns by posting regular YouTube reports.

In addition, Ian presents another weekly online programme, HUMANITY vs INSANITY: The Crane Report (see links below).

Fines and Infringements

What the system doesn't want you to know or to learn about fines and infringements.

Mr X will be explaining not only his own, but also other peoples successful techniques at negating and or waiving council fines, traffic infringements and tolls. This is an area of extreme interest and is a hot topic today. An increasing number of people are sick and tired of the blatant revenue raising techniques employed by the "government' agencies.

The discussion will include Q and A time, allowing the audience to get a real sense of his strategies and rationale. Mr X will also present a detailed analysis of why in these instances, he and others got out of paying the alleged 'fines'.

You will also get to take away EXAMPLE templates that can be amended and implemented enabling you to take on the system yourself in future.

Fluoride Legal Class Action Announcement

We all know that FLUORIDE is a toxin, and if you have done your own research you will understand why it is in your water in the first place…..but what can we do about it?

Well, We have great news! We have been in talks with a QLD based law firm about putting together what we believe might turn into one of Australia's biggest and most controversial Class Actions.

Mr X will explain just how you can become a part of this ground breaking attack on the SYSTEM. We would like to urge you to join with us and stop the mass medication of the population.

About
Samantha Bachman

With a background in the medical and healthcare industry, Samantha Bachman gives you a wonderful understanding of what we actually are as living beings, and how we can get the best out of this amazing biological machine we call our body. With a comedic approach, she has a way of delivering the truth of who we are, what we are capable of and how to get off the treadmill of ordinary life, like no other.

Samantha will have you thoroughly entertained with a hilarious, fun filled presentation of what it is to be human, have an ego and deal with life's 'bullshit' as she calls it.

You will walk away with a complete understanding of how to create a life of happiness and gain control of your mouth, your mind and your money.

Samantha Rayn Bachman is certainly a woman of many talents and qualification. She is multi skilled in the speaking and healthcare industry and covers many areas of orthodox, orthopathic and naturopathic medicine, as well as being a very suave comedienne. However these days she prefers to be known as an educator of self-care and her work with physical and subtle body alignments. In short she teaches how to reconnect to the living field of consciousness, where all healing and wisdom originates.

Samantha covers the topics of Health, Ego and Consciousness with not only a comprehensive description of what our body and mind is, but also what they are capable of. She gives you a very humorous ride through what it is to be human and have an Ego that often leads us in every direct but the right one.

She has interviewed and filmed (via her TV show- A Bloody Brilliant Life), extensively on people who have had near-death experiences or been the recipients of donated organs. Her understanding of 'the other side' of life has her audiences thoroughly engaged as she helps them understand how 'they too' can re-connect and find life's purpose and answers.

With many years of looking at live blood and tissue samples under a microscope, Samantha has developed a brilliant understanding of how our inner environment behaves, especially when it is presented with challenges such as food and environmental toxins. However it is the body's reaction to 'thought chemicals' that has consumed Samantha in research for many decades.

A meeting with Samantha will have you understanding how over 90% of dis-eases are either diet, or 'thought' and 'emotion' related or both. She puts forward a pretty convincing case on how what we put in our body and our mind over the day – impacts us on a physical and spiritual level more than we ever thought possible.

'Interfacing foundations with the PUBLIC, and how PAYG people can now run a foundation'

n the past it has only been possible for business owners to operate a foundation and gain the benefits of operating privately, outside the TAX SYSTEM. Great news, now there is a way to still be a PAYG earner, and operate a N-F-P foundation.

We know there will literally be thousands of members who will be super excited to hear this amazing product development from Phol-Ease and just how a N-F-P can be used by them now that it is in place.
